JUDGING PROCESS / AWARDS

The judging is blind: the designers, their names and the names of consulting firms may not appear anywhere in the entry form. Failure to abide by this rule results in immediate disqualification. Names or logos of manufacturing companies/clients may appear if they are inherent to the product.

Jurors do their initial scoring online in teams of two for their assigned categories. In this first stage of judging, the jury will evaluate all entries for eligibility, completeness, thoroughness, appropriateness and general conformance to award criteria. Specific criteria may be weighted differently in different categories, at the judges' discretion.

Finalists meeting a minimum score after the first round will be invited to submit supplementary material, according to the category of entry. For certain categories, submitting the actual product will be optional but highly recommended. For other categories, entrants will be invited to submit mounted photographs, storyboards, videos or models/prototypes. Complete instructions will be provided to Finalists upon notification.

In the second stage of judging, after reviewing the supplementary entry material sent in by the Finalists, judging teams will meet in person to decide which entries exemplify the key principles of design excellence and recommend a Gold, Silver or Bronze IDEA Winner at this time. The entire jury will then have the opportunity to review the category judges' recommendations, and additional votes may be required before final award determinations are made. The jury's decisions are final.

Best Student Design, Best Concept Design, other Best of Category Awards and Paradigm Shifter Awards (or other ad hoc awards) may also be given at the jury's discretion. The Best in Show Award may be given to the one Gold-winning entry deemed best in show by the jurors. This award will be determined at the conclusion of the regular jurying by clear majority vote.

People's Choice Award: Voting for this award will be conducted online after the winners are announced, and the voting is open to the public. Each person may only vote once. Voting will also be open during the conference. Only the Gold winners will be eligible to win the People's Choice Award.

DISCLAIMER

All decisions of the Jury and Sponsors are final. IDSA makes no guarantees as to the number and type of IDEA awards given each year. All data contained in the submission become the property of IDSA and part of its archives. Supplementary judging material and product samples submitted by Finalists will be held by IDSA for exhibit at the National Conference. They may be returned to the entrant after the conclusion of the exhibit at the expense of the entrant. By submitting an entry, you agree that IDSA and any other party authorized by it shall have permission to publish any material contained in the submission. Award entry material is on the public record and no content will be treated confidentially.

AWARD NOTIFICATION

On or about March 31, 2008 the Jury will select Finalists (“Selected Entrants”) to enter the next round of judging. All Selected Entrants will be required to respond (as directed) to the phone and/or e-mail notification within one week of attempted notification. Failure to respond in a timely manner to the notification may result in forfeiture of the award and, in such cases, Sponsor may re-score entries and select a new entrant. Each Selected Entrant will be asked to transport at their cost and risk additional supplementary material for judging, and may also be sent an affidavit of eligibility / liability / publicity release (“Release”). Entrant agrees to grant IDSA, its sponsor(s), third-party vendors and agents the unrestricted rights to publish, display and use the submitted design, entrant's name, voice, photograph, logo, or other mark or likeness, as well as same of the designer(s), for advertising and promoting the competition and other related purposes in any media without additional permission or compensation (optional for TN residents.) Selected Entrants may also be required to provide other relevant information. Unless restricted by law, each selected entrant will be required to complete and return the Release along with requested supplementary judging material within the time period specified therein. Entrants must agree to write a case study of their design for the Yearbook issue of IDSA's Innovation magazine in the event they win a Gold award.
